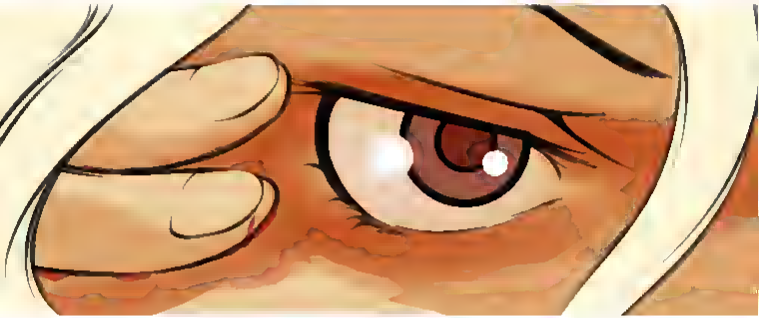
Within that heaps of ash among the dead body, there are those of children too. I'm guessing that you've just silently waited till the whole town burn down even though you knew that that blue haired bitch was going to go berserk.
It's because you didn't want to kill them with your own hands. Because you didn't want to dirty your own hands with blood!!

I vowed to myself I would protect Anne and yet, I was trembling from the fear of death from using magic... How shameful !!
How about you come here and try killing me as well?



Since I am also a witch!!

. So. that was the reason...

The blood... that revived me...
was the blood of that human...

Damn it...!!

...and another news story,

An explosion has been reported in Roselurn, a popular tourist site that is also known as the "witches' island". There have been a high number of casualties reported due to the festival that was being held in Roselurn during this incident. Due to the local festival's policy of restricting motored vehicles,

The delayed report of the accident contributed to a greater degree of damage. Meanwhile, the local police are investigating for a possibility of this being a terrorist attack due to religious reasons.

... Yes, it's been taken care of.

... She should be the last remaining witch on Roselum... Yes, due to the ongoing rampant in the middle of the town, all humans involved have died.

... However, another witch, seemingly not from this area, has also been spotted. No, we have not yet made an engagement.

... Yes. I understand that that was my orders.

... I understand. The target was the bigger problem than the witch. Yes, the target has also been eliminated. We've also found traces of contact with someone else.

Oh... the body...

... As I've mentioned earlier, there was a drawback due to an encounter with another witch. An accompanying templar has been injured; however, it is not serious.

Yes, We will send someone to retrieve the target's body.
Yes, all right...

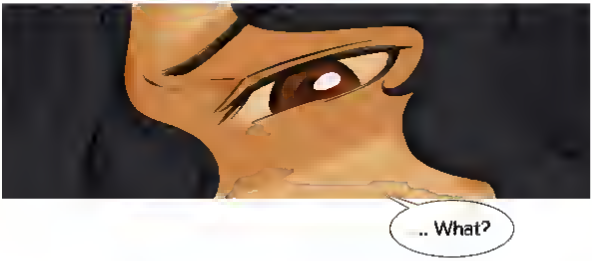
... Hey, wake up. A youngster like you should be working hard during the day, why are you still in bed?
...
... Geil! Wake up!
Ugh... hh..

DROP3
... Change your clothes already. That's not a good look for you. Hurry. We need to leave soon.

Arle...



.. What?

We...

We're fighting against the witches so that the humans will be the sole survivors on this land, right?

You know, more and more, I get... a bit skeptical about this.

... You're just confused from all the words the enemy planted in your head. Well, isn't it natural?

When they find out about the existence of witches, then sooner or later, they'll know about us as well Do you think that they will willingly accept us?

.. But what will happen afterwards?

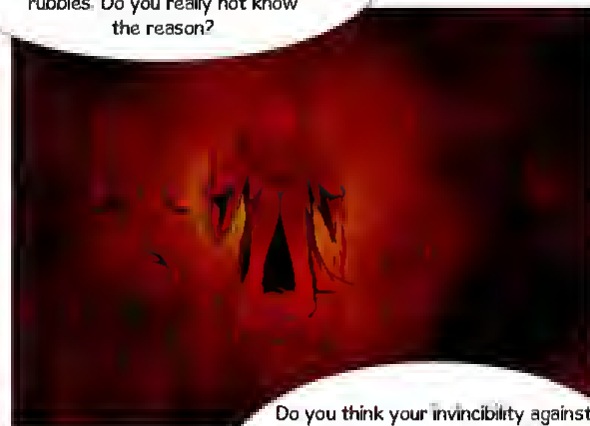
Listen up, Geil. If you want to play the hero that beats up all the bad witches and rescue all the humans, then just get the hell out of here immediately.

There are no heroes in this world. "Someone to fight for me, someone to die for me", in order to justify ourselves, we name them "heroes".

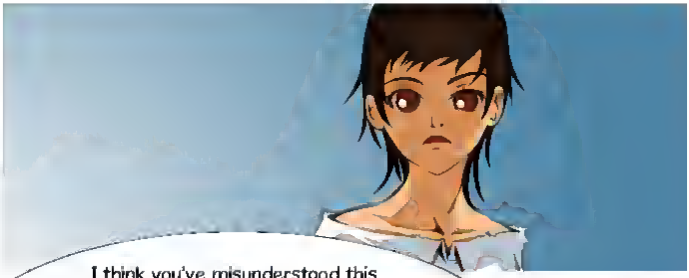
After the battle against the witches, when they are all eliminated... the next target becomes you. Don't you know the fates of those that humans call "heroes"?

You thought that was an act of saving a human? Geh. I didn't think you were foolish to that extent.

... 12 years ago, when the witch appeared, you were the sole survivor, weeping among the rubbles. Do you really not know the reason?



Do you think your invincibility against magic comes from templar training and techniques that you've mastered to kill witches?
Wrong. You've survived because the blood of the templars flows within you. I didn't save you.



I think you've misunderstood this because you were born and raised among humans, but templar doesn't denote a class, nor an organization. Humans, witches and us, templars, all share the same root but we evolved differently from each other.

Yes, I think the word evolution fits perfectly.

In order to survive, witches were equipped with power that could crush the humans instantly. On the other hand, templars were equipped with power that could counter those of witches--invincibilty against magic. Humans may be the weakest, however, they've equipped themselves with weapons forged from their power of knowledge. I mean, we can be killed with a single gunshot or a bomb

Isn't it amazing? Everything else evolves from survivability; however, our evolution comes from the need to eliminate each other.
Heh, perhaps, that may be the way for survival.

Now you understand how silly it is to mercilessly slay a witch, yet hesitate to slay a human, right?

If you understand then hurry up. We don't have any time for chit chats. We need to catch the next boat ride, there's a storm approaching soon.

Two coffins have been opened...

One coffin left destruction
and deaths on this place.

Ah ooh... Ah oohh!!

What the other coffin has left on this place...

What could it be...?
